COACH BURDICK OF PUNAHOU THINKS REVISED FOOTBALL RULES ARE BETTER FOR ALL

Coach W. L. Burdick of Punahou thinks the new rules will make football a better game, both from the standpoint of the spectator and the player.

He said: "I don't think as many games will come in a tie this year as last, on account of the different system of scoring. Last year a touch-down and a goal kick scored six, and also two drop kicks would score six, and many games ended in a tie on that account. This year, however, a touchdown and a goal kick will score seven, so there will not be as much chance for a tie.

"The extra down is going to put a more real football and less kicking. With three downs, if two line backs fail, the opposing team is almost certain that the last down will be a kick and they are prepared for it. This year, with the extra down, there will be a good deal of doubt as to when the kick will come, and so the opposing team will have to be prepared at all times, and when the team is lined up to receive an expected kick the line will be weakened, leaving more chance to gain the yardage by line bucking.

"Elimination of the onside kick will also reduce the amount of kicking, because there will be no chance to recover the ball afterwards.

"The rule allowing the forward pass over the goal line will cause the defense to open up when expecting a pass, thereby giving the opponents a greater chance for a touch-down.

"I think there will be larger scores this year on account of that rule and also from the fact that the field will be ten yards shorter.

"Shortened intermission is going to make a faster game for the spectators, and although it will not give the players as much time to recuperate, it will prevent their becoming stiff from too long a rest.

"The forward pass is going to be used a lot more this year than last, I think, because there is no heavy penalty attached to it, and there will be more chances to see it because of the extra number of downs and the rule allowing its use over the goal line.

"The other changes this year are all more or less included in these main ones that I have given.

"Summing up, I think football will be a better game this year than in previous years. It will be more appreciated by the spectators and more interesting to the players."

Coach Burdick entered Yale in 1905. He spent two years there and then, in 1907, he entered the University of Kansas. He played football on the class team and in his senior year he was a substitute on the varsity football team and also pitcher on the varsity baseball nine, for which he won his "K."

He graduated from Kansas in 1909 and received his A. B. He then taught in the Iowa High School, Kan. Besides coaching he was director of athletics, and coach of the basketball and baseball teams.

In 1911 he left Iowa and returned to Yale to graduate from that college in 1912, with an M. A. in chemistry.

Mr. Burdick is now coaching the Punahou football team, and is making a great success of it.

MARQUARD PITCHED A BRAINY GAME TO DEFEAT THE RED SOX

LARRY DOYLE.
Captain of the Giants.

Used His Head as Well as His Hands and Showed to Good Effect at Bat as Well

The scene of the action shifted back to New York today, the third game, but in reality the fourth contest for the world's baseball title, being scheduled for Gotham. It's easy to imagine the way the Giant fans stormed the Polo Grounds to show their loyalty to the team that won a glorious victory yesterday in the play-off of Wednesday's heart-breaking tie. It's probable that at the diamond side the Giants have come up a notch in the betting, for to date Boston has shown no great excess of class, and before today's game it was an even break as to results.

Following is another account of yesterday's game, by wireless to the Advertiser:

BOSTON, Massachusetts, October 10.—Rube Marquard, Johnny McGraw's great left-handed pitcher, and his famous "turkey trot" ball proved superior to "Buck" O'Brien and his "salva twist" this afternoon, and the third contest of the world's series was chalked up to the credit of the visitors by a score of two to one.

Marquard showed better form in the box than any of the twirlers who have appeared in the present series of games, and held the locals' dangerous hitters safely at all stages. A bit of quick thinking on the part of the "southpaw" saved him in the ninth inning, when he retired Gardner at third base, as a moment later Arthur Fletcher, the Giants' erratic shortstop, made a costly error that would have cheated Richard de Marquis of his well-earned victory. Some doubts were entertained as to whether Marquard would be steady in the box, in view of his unfortunate work of last year, but these were swept away when he began whipping his fast-breaking curves across the plate with lightning speed.

He kept the singles scattered and prevented Trix Speaker, the Boston star slugger, from connecting safely. Aside from the spectacular work of Marquard, Murray started with two sensational catches in the outfield, one a drive against the fence and the other a skyscraper which he pulled out of the air with one hand. Murray also started the scoring, slugging out a pretty double in the second inning and registering on two sacrifice hits. New York's second tally came in the fifth, when Herzog doubled and was chased over the rubber on a single by Fletcher.

O'Brien was a bit unsteady at various stages of the contest, but he had plenty of saliva on the ball and it was all the Giants could do to get a solid wallop off his style of pitching. He retired in the eighth in favor of Redient, after Neal Ball had been shoved in to bat for him and had fanned.

The last of the ninth inning gave the Red Sox rosters their big thrills when, with Speaker down, Lewis scratched an infield hit and circled the sack on a long double by Larry Gardner.

It was up to Manager Jake Stahl to win the game, and he showed a hard one to Marquard. "The Rub" seized it and, showing good baseball judgment, hurried his throw to Herzog at third in time to cut off Gardner. Hendrickson, running for Stahl, got to third, when Fletcher tossed a blunder in fielding Wagner's grounders, hurling the ball far to one side of Merkle. Cady ended the suspense when he flied out to Jash Devore in leftfield, and Marquard got the glory of his first world's series win.

The attendance was greater than at yesterday's game, as today found 31,624 people at the American League Park. The total receipts were $61,112, of which $33,926 will go to the players and $27,184 to the National Commission.

HEALANIS AND MYRTLES READY FOR BALL GAME

Everything is in readiness for the ball game that will decide the vital point of supremacy on the diamond between the Myrtles and Healanis. Tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 is the time, Athletic Park the place, and the girls—well, she'll be there, all right.

Both teams have been out for practice during the past week, as bruised hands and lame arms will testify. In the vernacular, it will be "some game," and as admission is free, a big crowd should turn out to give the owners a send-off.

SHAKE-UP IN THE 1912 TENNIS RANKINGS

Several Old-Timers Will Be Dropped from the List Be- cause They Did Not Play This Year

The lawn tennis championship tournaments of America for 1912 have, with few exceptions, been completed, and the ranking committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association is now collecting data on which to rank the players for 1912-13.

The ranking committee consists of M. S. Charlock, Charles M. Bull and G. T. Adee, all of New York. These gentlemen are mailing to all players who have competed in two or more tournaments blank forms which will show to the committee just what each contestant has accomplished in actual play.

These forms should reach the committee by December 1 and the new ranking list will probably be completed and published early in December.

Present Rank of Players.

The ranking players of America last season were placed as follows: No. 1, W. A. Larned; No. 2, Maurice McLoughlin; No. 3, Thomas Bundy; No. 4, G. F. Touchard; No. 5, Melville H. Long; No. 6, Nat Niles; No. 7, T. R. Pell; No. 8, A. D. Little; No. 9, Karl Behr; No. 10, W. Hall.

The positions in the ranking, ten are gained with great difficulty and the changes made year by year are generally slight, but the year 1912 is a record-breaker in this respect, and the personnel of the ranking players has been more thoroughly upset than in any year since the list was opened.

Old-time experts will drop entirely out of sight and new blood will show up strongly in the new list, although some of the youthful experts of 1911 have slumped quite as badly as their older rivals.

In the new ranking list California will certainly be the greatest gainers, and will probably also be the greatest losers.

That State has secured the first place in both singles and doubles, as Maurice McLoughlin has earned the first singles position, and McLoughlin and Bundy have earned the first place in doubles. Outside of these honors, however, the State is in rather bad luck.

Last season four Californians—McLoughlin, Bundy, Touchard and Long—held positions in the first ten, but owing to the fact that Long failed to compete this season in any of the regular events, while Touchard was unable to reach his form at all, the former must lose his place entirely, while Touchard is sure barely to make the ten. Bundy, on account of illness, met with so small a measure of success that he is due to rank nearer the bottom than the top of the list.

Many Changes Necessary.

The 1912 record of the players who ranked in the first ten at the end of last season's play is as follows:

No. 1—W. A. Larned did not play in any tournament in 1912, consequently will not appear in the next list.

No. 2—Maurice McLoughlin of San Francisco won seven tournaments—the Central California, the San Francisco, Pacific States, the Western States, the Longwood, the New York States and the American National championship. He has beaten in these tournaments nearly every active tournament player of importance, including E. P. Larned, T. Bundy, W. J. Clothier, Karl Behr, M. H. Long, Dabney W. Washburn, R. Palmer and R. N. Williams. On his record this season he is certain to be placed as No. 1 in the next list.

No. 3—T. Bundy of Los Angeles has this season been defeated by McLoughlin, Niles and Church, and has beaten among the topnotchers only Inman and Behr. It is recognized that illness during his Eastern trip prevented him from making a fair showing; but as the players are to be ranked purely on performances this year, he will probably lose about five places.

Touchard Going Down.

No. 4—G. F. Touchard has won several tournaments, including Englewood, the Bronx and Long Island, but he has been beaten by Niles, Marthey, Williams, Wallace, Johnson, C. B. Doyle and Schaffer, some of whom are second and third-class men. He will probably land in the next list at about No. 9.

No. 5—Melville H. Long of San Francisco has played in none of the ranking tournaments this season, and so much drop out of the list.

No. 6—Nat Niles of Boston has won several important tournaments, and has beaten Harris, Touchard, Clothier, Behr, Church and Dabney. He has lost to Little, Gardner and Hall, all of whom he outranks.

No. 7—T. R. Pell has been abroad all season and will consequently not be ranked.

No. 8—R. D. Little has a long list of victories to his credit, but has only beaten Touchard, Niles and Dabney of the leading players. He has lost to Touchard, Behr, Harris and Williams.

SPORTING GOSSIP OF GREAT BRITAIN CULLED AT RANDOM

By mutual agreement the date of the contest between Matt Wells and Fred Welsh for the lightweight championship of Great Britain has been postponed from October 21 to November 11, owing to the fact that Fred Welsh has matches on in America that will prevent him going to England in time to train for the match, which will take place before the National sporting Club. Welsh had first proposed to reach England on the last day of the present month, but before he could be apprised by Harry Marks that Wells had agreed to the October date, he had entered into a couple of contracts which he feels compelled to fulfill. The postponement is only a matter of three weeks, and Wells and his manager, George McDonald, when apprised of Welsh's predicament, readily agreed to the altered date.

Olympic Games Suggestion.

The Olympic games have been receiving so much attention of late that it is somewhat refreshing to find an original suggestion with regard to them. An idea that might very readily appeal to the British Olympic Council is to be found in the editorial of the September number of the "Arena." In the writer's opinion it is absurd to attempt to place the nations in an order of merit as the result of a series of contests selected in an arbitrary manner, and assessed at arbitrary values. How can comparative values be assigned to association football and yacht racing? For instance, or how can one positively state the number of inches of superiority in a long jump that should form a true equivalent to the credit of providing both crews for the final of the eight-oared races? Events should be arranged in groups, e. g., (a) all rowing contests; (b) swimming, diving, and water polo; (c) short distance track races; and the nation successful in any particular group would be champion of that group, and nothing more.

Record Rugby Salary.

W. Farnsworth, the New South Wales rugby football halfback, has signed to play for Oldham, one of the prominent English teams. Farnsworth's fee for signing is the highest that has been paid for a rugby player in the history of the game—$2,000.

Wants English Crews.

The New South Wales and Victorian Rowing Associations are endeavoring to induce an English eight-oared crew to visit Australia next year to row at Henley on the Yarra, Melbourne, and on the famous Parra-matta River.

Against Betting.

The football association consultative committee is determined to stop betting insofar as preventive efforts can do so. The following resolution was recently passed: "The attention of the council having been called to the growing custom of the publication of football forecasts, and believing that such a practice is a direct incentive to betting, and not for the good of the game, resolved that it will be deemed misconduct under the rules of the association for any official, player, or other member of the association, to publish or procure the publication of such forecasts."

Want Internationalist, has shown this year some of his old-time form, and has beaten Niles, Williams, Little and Le Roy, losing only in hard matches to Bundy, Niles, McLoughlin, Williams and Johnson.

No. 10—W. M. Hall has done nothing this season to warrant his position. The only expert he has beaten is Nat Niles, and he has had a long list of defeats scored against him by the other ranking players.

New Men Appear.

The new men who appear to have earned positions among the first ten this year are R. N. Williams, Wallace Johnson and W. J. Clothier, all of Philadelphia, and F. H. Harris of Dartmouth. R. N. Williams has placed several tournaments to his credit and has been beaten only by McLoughlin, Behr and Johnson. He lost two hard-fought five-set matches to McLoughlin and provided the greatest contests which the new champion met throughout the season.

Johnson, after opening the season badly, improved rapidly at the finish and gained the position of runner-up at the national championship. He has been beaten by Williams, Niles and McLoughlin, but he has beaten Williams and Behr and fought a five-set match with McLoughlin in the finish of the National.

Clothier Coming Back.

W. J. Clothier, like Johnson, is a player who was dropped in 1911 from the ranking list on account of sickness. He has a great reputation as a sound player and has taken good positions wherever he has played this year in the leading tournaments, though he has not won any of them. He has lost to Niles and McLoughlin and has been Dabney, Gardner and Little.

F. H. Harris of Dartmouth has won victories over Inman, Church and Little and has lost to Niles and Touchard. He was formerly Dartmouth and New England intercollegiate champion, and his game has this year shown marked improvement. According to the performances of the season the ten players will probably rank for next year as follows:

Possible First Ten.

No. 1, Maurice E. McLoughlin of San Francisco; No. 2, Wallace Johnson of Philadelphia; No. 3, R. N.

LOCAL FANS WANT TO SEE CHINESE IN ACTION

When Honolulu Organization That Has Been Touring the Mainland Returns Games Should Be Arranged

The All-Chinese ball team will be here Monday on the Sierra, and the question local fans are now asking is "When will we see them in action?" There is no doubt but that everyone interested in the national game is anxious to size up the players, and see what their long mainland tour has done for them both as individual players and as a combination.

The Chinese made a fine record on their trip, and undoubtedly they have come up many notches in playing ability. Some games with Oahu league teams should be arranged as soon as possible, before the returning players get out of form and while they are still used to playing together as a team. As far as the league schedule goes, it has already been shot to pieces that a few more postponements won't hurt, while at the same time the fans will be getting just what they want.

The Chinese players will be met at the dock Monday morning by the members of the team who returned in advance, and by a large delegation of local Chinese. A big banquet is to be given Monday night.

CY YOUNG SAYS TEAM PLAY IS MUCH BETTER

There is no denying that baseball has improved since I entered the game twenty-three years ago, says Cy Young, the former major league pitcher. Perhaps there hasn't been so much improvement in the individual players as some may imagine, but there has been a big change in team play.

There is really no way to tell whether individuals have improved or not. In horse races and athletics we have records which indicate whether there has been improvement, but in baseball we have nothing of the kind.

We cannot prove, for instance, whether a pitcher like Walter Johnson has more speed than Amos Rusie had in his palmy days. It is merely a matter of opinion whether our best infielders are better than the men of a quarter of a century ago.

But in team play there is no chance for an argument. You no longer see outfielders rooted to one spot. For almost every batter they change position, and, in fact, knowledge of the batters is almost half the game.

Infielders use their brains more than they used to. It is no hit-or-miss arrangement which man will cover second on an attempted steal; it's clockwork for the second baseman to cover first on a sacrifice. Nothing is being overlooked to make the game better and faster.

Do not imagine for a minute that pitching hasn't improved. When I broke into baseball, all a pitcher needed was "smoke." As a matter of fact, that was all I had, and I made good from the jump.

Now, to be successful, a pitcher must first of all have control. He must know the weakness of each batter. He needs a change of pace, a fast one and a slow one, to be anywhere near the top, and he must include a curve ball in his stock.

And just as long as men think, the game will improve. It is only natural that it should be so, when brainy men devote the best part of their lives to the study of the game.

PORTLAND SIGNS CUNNINGHAM.

Willie Cunningham, the promising young outfielder with the Burlington baseball club, has been signed to play with the Portland Coastiers next season. The contract was signed by John F. Cunningham, who is the uncle of the ball player and also his guardian. Several other Coast League clubs were after the same player.

WHEAT KING'S SON WHITE HOPE

CHICAGO.—The many Evanston friends of Jack Patten, 18-year-old son of James A. Patten, former wheat king, were greatly surprised to hear that he is aspiring as a real "white hope" in the boxing line.

The news was imparted by John Burg, secretary to President A. W. Harris, in which he describes in detail the rise of young Patten as a boxer and tells how he knocked out a heavyweight, of the Northwestern University football team on the trip over to Europe and how he won a silver cup as the best boxer on the ship. He engaged in seven contests. He also entered the Victoria Louis boxing contests in England and emerged with honors.

James A. Patten always has been a strong admirer of clean sports, and in an interview not long ago said: "Athletics under proper conditions will do anything for a boy."

Jack weighs more than 180 pounds. He is a student at the Evanston Academy.

FINALS OF MANOA CUP SUNDAY

Golfers are looking forward to next Sunday's play, which will decide the possession of the Manoa cup, and with it the championship of the Oahu Country Club. Fourteen players qualified for this event in the 36 holes of medal play last Sunday, and these will fight it out for the cup, over another medal course of the same number of holes.

Possession of the cup seems to lie between George Angus, the present holder, T. Gill, Frank Holstead and J. I. B. Greig. These are the only ones who can be figured to have a look-in at 36 holes of stroke play. Of the four Gill makes the most uniformly low scores, and is the only plus man in the club. Angus, who is a scratch man, plays his best in competition, and if he played often enough he could hold his own with anyone here. However, he has hardly had a club in his hands for months, and is way below form. Holstead is a 7 handicap man, but he has been playing very well lately, and last Sunday was within two strokes of being low gross.

He took the low net. Greig won the Navy Cup recently, and if he gets going right can be counted on to be well up in the running.

Following are the players who qualified given in the order of their gross scores: T. Gill, F. Holstead, G. Angus, W. Simpson, J. Greig, C. Wright, P. Morse, A. Ewart, F. Kiehn, L. Redington, C. Bockus, R. Booth, H. E. Spicer.

On October 28 there is to be a team match, followed by a stein smoker, which is intended to provide the new club house with a plentiful supply of beer containers.

The teams are to be captained by Frank Armstrong and Frank Holstead respectively and any club member desiring to play should notify one or the other. The names will then be placed on a list, and the captains will "chase up" as in the good old school days.

POSTAL MOTOR WAGONS IN ENGLAND

Seventy new motor mail wagons are about to be employed in London to convey letters and parcels between the central and district postoffices and railway stations. The wagons can carry a ton each and will bring up the motor fleet of the London general postoffice to about 100 vehicles.

In the judgment of the postoffice officials it is believed that this postal motor fleet would prove of great advantage during the continuance of a railway strike, as many of the wagons could be used for collection and distribution of letters and parcels in places even at a considerable distance from London.—Consular report.

"Clothes don't make the man," said the careless customer.
